STANLEY PARK ECOLOGY

Photo: Perry Edwards

Co-Existing with Coyotes

With a few simple actions, we can help reduce conflicts between people, pets and coyotes.

Coyotes thrive in cities. They are naturally scared of people, but can become bold and aggressive if fed.

For more info or to report a sighting:

StanleyParkEcology.ca/co-exist

604-257-6908 ext. 104

STANLEY PARK ECOLOGY

Photo: Michael Schmidt

Never Feed Coyotes

- Coyotes that are fed by people can become bold and aggressive, and may have to be destroyed

Keep Your Yard Tidy

- Secure and cover garbage and compost
- Remove ripe garden veggies and fallen fruit
- Don't leave pet food outside

Protect Your Pets

- Keep cats indoors, especially at night
- Keep dogs on a leash and closely supervised

If You See a Coyote

- Scare it - help it retain a natural fear of people
- Make yourself big and yell, "Go away, coyote!"
- Use a Coyote Shaker - a few rocks in a pop can
- Report coyote sightings online or by phone

Report a Sighting:

- StanleyParkEcology.ca/co-exist
- 604-257-6908 ext. 104

Report feeders and aggressive coyotes to the BC Ministry of Environment:
1-877-952-RAPP (7277)

VANCOUVER BOARD OF PARKS AND RECREATION